Three significant features on my personal website:

1. Color selector on the home page. They are meant to delight the users, so my website is more interactive. And if the user is not happy with my choice of color, they can pick their favourite one.

2. The "show more" button on the second page. This is a button that hides tedious information from users. Not all of them are interested in my work experience. And the "show more" under IXL hides a fun animation that brings users surprise.

3. The SVG bird animation on the travel page. This animation is cool because it symbolizes my theme of travel. And they fly next the plane in the background of a sky. Users will immediately catch the theme of my page with this small animation.
